CORPS SECURITY IMPLEMENTS BESPOKE SYSTEM FROM PEOPLEPLANNER

New solution goes live to support Operations and HR functions across the business

Corps Security, one of the UK's premier suppliers of security and support services, has invested in a new operating platform, to enable even greater end-to-end efficiency across the business.

Corps Security has spent the last 18 months working in partnership with the team at PeoplePlanner to develop a proactive exception based solution for the business. The system will enforce the necessary processes and controls to provide operational and management information in order for Corps Security to deliver an exceptional service in the heavily regulated security sector.

Ian McMullon, Managing Director, PeoplePlanner, said:

"I have been personally involved in the project ever since Corps Security chose our system to be the backbone of their business. From the outset it was clear that the PeoplePlanner solution could provide a unique platform for Corps Security, and its clients with the forthcoming self services modules.

"The co-founders of PeoplePlanner have a background in manned guarding, but our initial focus was the more challenging home and social care sector. We always planned to return to our roots, but only once we had successfully penetrated the home and social care sector. By taking this approach PeoplePlanner has been able to apply its manned guarding knowledge to develop a leading solution within the care sector.

“We have taken our experience of the care sector, and with the help of Corps Security, we believe that we have developed a leading solution for the manned guarding sector too.”

Richard Moule, CEO, Corps Security, comments:

“We identified and have invested in the Corps Security business to provide the highest levels of operational excellence in the marketplace. PeoplePlanner now controls the key process and functions that ensure our team are able to deliver best in class service and solutions across our portfolio of clients in the UK.

“In such a regulated and service driven sector we cannot afford any margin of error, and I am impressed with the team at PeoplePlanner’s approach to ensure the system delivered makes the maximum impact on the business.”
