Corps Security announces new President

12th October 2011 Corps Security has announced that Lieutenant General Sir Robert Fulton KBE has been elected as the organisation's new President, succeeding Lieutenant General Sir Henry Beverley KCB OBE who leaves the organisation after 15 years in the role.

An Old Etonian, Sir Robert's distinguished military career began in 1972 when he joined the Royal Marines. In a military career of 34 years, he commanded 42 Commando and 3 Commando Brigade before being appointed Commandant General Royal Marines in 1998. He left the Armed Forces in 2006 as the Deputy Chief of the Defence Staff for Equipment Capability. In 2006 he was appointed to be the 63rd Governor of Gibraltar and returned to UK in 2009.

Commenting on his new appointment, Sir Robert said, 'Having served as a trustee since 2010, I am delighted to be able to carry on the fine work of Sir Henry Beverley in the role of President. Corps Security's prestigious history is a source of great pride to all who work for the organisation and we will continue to ensure that dedication, integrity and the pursuit of excellence is at the heart of what we do.'

Having served as Commandant General of the Royal Marines between 1990-94, Sir Henry joined Corps Security in 1996. He said, 'The last 15 years have been an exciting time for all at Corps Security and I take great satisfaction in leaving it in such a healthy position.'

Corps Security's chief executive, Peter Webster, concluded, 'It has been our immense privilege to have Sir Henry as our President and I would like to thank him for his work during his tenure. We welcome Sir Robert to his new role and look forward to working with him and drawing on his vast knowledge and experience.'

Corps Security

Corps Security uses its focused, specialist expertise to ensure the security, safety and well-being of many of the UK's leading businesses and organisations.

Established 152 years ago, Corps Security is one of the oldest and best respected commercial suppliers of security services, offering a wide range of specialist security services which cover every aspect of threat reduction and business protection.

Originally established to provide gainful employment for injured ex-servicemen returning from the Crimean War, this ethos of caring for ex-soldiers, sailors and airmen continues today, with a high percentage of the company's workforce having previously served within the armed forces. This unique history sets Corps Security apart from mainstream security providers. However, it is the company's modern and innovative approach to service design and delivery which has seen it grow to become recognised today as a market leader in the UK.
